Information collected HERE on the 19th March. 18 March – "Calls to 112 have tripled and 57% are very inconsequential inquiries about Covid-19. The saturation of 112 with this health alert is very worrying." "With the evolution of infections, those calls to 112 will multiply if the citizen continues to be wrong when dialling the number. And from saturation you could go to collapse, which an emergency phone can't afford. On Monday (16 March) the 112 received 11,457 calls in Catalonia (the normal number is 4,500 a day) and 6,591 (57.5%) were for irrelevant queries associated with the coronavirus."
